International Grammar School (IGS) occupies a unique position in the landscape of independent schools in Sydney. It is a vibrant co-educational secular school with a mission to equip students to be ready for the world. Our strategic aspirations for limitless learning, empowered students and a sustainable future define our future direction. IGS’s motto, unity through diversity, underpins our immersion program across six languages and our Indigenous community connections. It is an important time in the school’s history with work underway reimagining and redesigning the inner city campus for our 1200 students from preschool to year 12.

IGS now seeks a Board Chair to work in a voluntary capacity, with an interest in the education of young people and able to balance community and commerciality. The right person will have strong board experience, including as either Chair or Deputy Chair and will be able to lead our Board in a way that aligns with the School’s values.

Please obtain information about the position by calling the consultant assisting the School, Kathy McLean, of Fish & Nankivell, on 0414 376 698. Applications will close on 19 November 2016. A concurrent search is being conducted.
